Newsletter 8 • April 2022

Welcome

To the eighth issue of our newsletter, which is sent to all our members. After a long drawn-out lull in activity, things appear to be picking up at last. A number of new members have joined our ranks, and clients are approaching us to design coats of arms for them. While activity on our forum remains low-key, our Facebook discussion group is attracting more members, and more topics are being presented for discussion.

Who's who Advancement

The Board is pleased to announce that Ethan Trice passed the Basic Heraldic Knowledge examination, and was advanced to Associate Fellow in March.

Designs for clients

After something of a drought over the past year, applications for the design of coats of arms are beginning to come in again. The following two designs were recently completed :

- Owen Arnold – by Isaac Meir Schneider (herald) and Mark Henderson (artist);
- Rayane le Hars – by Fr Daniel Gill (herald) and Lee Lumbley (artist).

In recent newsletters, we've showcased some corporate arms from our archives. Here are two more :

- the Los Angeles Airport Police Department – by Geoff Kingman-Sugars and Barrie Burr (joint heralds) and Barrie Burr (artist);
- the Nangle Clan Family Association – by Geoff Kingman-Sugars (herald) and Barrie Burr (artist).

You'll find full-size images, blazons and further details, on the Design Roll on our website.
